

Thursday 16 July | 17:00-18:30

Oral presentations VI: Vaccinology Education; Trust; Communication

Co-Creating Vaccine Competency - A Participatory Design Approach to Interprofessional Vaccinology E-Learning - J. Bauwens

Enhancing Vaccinology Knowledge among Public Health Professionals: evaluation of training activities offered by the Public Health Post-Degree School of the University of Bari - C. Palmieri

Mass Media Campaigns for Vaccination Promotion: Lessons from Italian and Spanish Case Studies - C. Signorelli

The association between levels of trust in the healthcare system and influenza vaccine hesitancy: Implications for vaccinology education - K. Dopelt

Analysis of Italian university programmes looking for basics of vaccinology in the education of Italian teachers working in early childhood education and care - L. Brunelli

Acceptability of Vaccine Co-Administration Among Hospitalized Patients: The "Hospital Vaccination Project" in Southern Italy - S. D'Amico

Recommendations to address vaccine hesitancy among people who are pregnant - S. Lombatti

What public health professionals need from generative AI for seasonal vaccination campaigns: interview-based requirements and usability results - F. Baglivo